

IMPARTIAL ADVICE: Sharon Wood and Jon Green enjoy some tasty pub food

Couple launch online good pub food guide

A COUPLE from outside Ulverston has started an online quest to find the best pub grub in Cumbria and the rest of Britain.

Sharon Wood and Jon Green, from Penny Bridge, have set up a new website called www.enjoyourmeal.co.uk

Visitors can recommend the best places to enjoy pub food and check out the ratings of other taverns across the country.

The duo will take to the county's roads in an eye-catching Robin Hood kit car to launch the website.

They will urge both publicans and pub food customers to register on the site to enjoy free networking benefits and help promote the best pub grub in the land.

Ms Wood said: "Every day we were inundated with requests from guests about the best places to eat locally, the majority of whom had booked online.

"When we sold our holiday home we moved to a new village and struggled to get good unbiased advice about the best places to eat.

"We looked online, but were none the wiser really

"My parents like to go away most weekends too, but like most of us they end up in the nearest pub in the high street, just because it's convenient."

Mr Green thinks the new website fills a gap in the market and gives a good impartial reflection of the best pubs to have a meal in the UK.

He said: "On websites like ebay, sellers rely on customer referrals which they only achieve if they provide an excellent service.

"It would be nice to think that such a simple idea as enjoyourmeal.co.uk will have a similar impact in encouraging excellence in the pub food industry too. Both Sharon and I love pub food because it caters for all tastes and can often represent great savings on some restaurants.

"But the website is more than just a labour of love for us, it's a serious business proposition too."

The new website encourages visitors to post opinions on their favourite pubs.

They can search the directory and choose pub food which has the best references.

The website also has an online forum called The Snug for publicans and customers to discuss all the latest pub food issues.
